Project Respect

Project Respect is a grant-funded program that aims at reducing truancy, suspension, and negative behavior within Pueblo City Schools through a small, dedicated group of people called Community Advocates. The Community Advocates play an integral role in creating success for low income, disadvantaged students. We use creative and unique methods to bring together the student, family, school, and community for life-long success. Our annual run generates funds that will be solely used for the purpose of helping Project Respect foster success with the 334 students, k-12, that we serve on a yearly basis.
